Beanies Are Sprouting At Artbarn Community Theater

Theater arts troupe launched for the youngest of Sprouts

August 13, 2004 (Brookline, MA) -- This September, Brookline's youngest actors and actresses will be sprouting up at Artbarn Community Theater with the introduction of Beanies, a performance troupe for 3-4 year olds. Specifically designed to introduce the performing arts to very young children, Artbarn's Beanies will offer a lively combination of musical activities, games and storytelling.

"We've experienced sold-out success with our Sprouts program for kindergarten students," commented Jackie Borck, Artbarn's Artistic Director. "The next logical step is to answer the demand from parents of an even younger age group. When children see what fun their siblings and friends are having acting, singing and dancing, they want to participate too!"

Beanies will be budding each week at Artbarn Community Theater beginning Wednesday, September 22 from 1:30-2:30 pm with a separate class that meets on Thursdays, beginning September 23rd, from 2:30-3:30 pm. Beanies classes are held at Temple Sinai, 50 Sewall Ave. in Coolidge Corner.

Established in 1999, Artbarn Community Theater is a not-for-profit theater arts program for children preschool through high school. Artbarn is committed to providing a warm, nurturing and creative environment where children and youth can make friends, practice social skills and nurture a creative process they can use for the rest of their lives.
